Importance: High

Good afternoon and Happy Valentine's Day!

Thank you all for giving me the chance to express a concern.

Staff across the College talk about the importance of an individual's story. We need to listen, value and support. It is unlikely that staff at this College would disparage the story of a student. Why then, would it be okay for the College to treat a fellow co-worker that way?

I have heard comments of an extremely unfair nature related to Phillip's story. I have heard these comments across all employee groups, they tend to be most prevalent from a group that holds a lot of power on campus. How could I not reflect on those past comments and the committee's decision not to select him as a finalist?

While I look forward to learning about the four finalists, knowing that each have unique strengths to bring to Shoreline, it is hard for me to imagine that Phillip with his experience, knowledge of the campus, his ability to allow others to shine and, to allow others to be the expert in the room, would not be selected as a finalist.

As the former Title IX and EEO Coordinator for the College I feel like I need to ask respectfully that the search committee reconsider their decision not to select Phillip King as a finalist for President.

To the board, please support this idea of critical reflection and to my campus colleagues, for the sake of everyone's story, please reflect on this situation and ask tough questions.

Respectfully,
Lianne Almughirah

University of Washington's School of Dentistry & Shoreline Community College's Dental Hygiene Program – Clinic Site & Update

Dean Mary Burroughs shared information related to the Shoreline Community College Dental Hygiene's (clinic and program) move to the University of Washington's School of Dentistry (UWSOD).

- The transition began in the fall of 2021 – “with a select group of students doing their clinical rotations at the University of Washington with the Dental Hygiene faculty.”
- In June of 2021, the move of the “entire clinic and program from the Shoreline campus to the UWSOD” started. “At that time, we had expected that the clinic would be ready for the Dental Hygiene students.” Issues related to old buildings, asbestos, and plumbing caused a delay in the opening of the clinic. The UWSOD accommodated “us very well” during the “construction of the clinic for the Shoreline students.”
- Delta Dental donated $1 million for the construction of the new clinic. Funding for the new clinic was also provided by Shoreline and the UWSOD.
- There was a “challenge grant for an additional $500,000 and there was a matching grant” which resulted in over $2 million brought in from fundraising. “All of that money will go to the University of Washington to improve the clinic space, to expand their simulation space, and to support the Dental Hygiene Program as well.”
- The clinic opened on the first day of the winter 2022 quarter. “It is absolutely beautiful.”
- The UWSOD Dean said that the Dental students have requested to work with our Dental Hygiene students. “Four-Handed Dentistry (Dental student and Dental Hygiene student) will begin in about a week. We are the only school in the country that is doing this.”
- Dean Burroughs shared photos of the clinic and simulation center.
- The proposal for a Bachelor of Applied Science in Dental Hygiene was recently submitted to the SBCTC and the proposal is scheduled to be presented to the State Board in early May 2022.
- The accreditation visit for the Dental Hygiene Program is scheduled for May 11-12, 2022.

The Trustees, referring to “the dilemma we were in a few years ago,” shared congratulatory sentiments, noting that the move to the UWSOD “was a really good one.”

REPORT: FINANCIAL & BUDGET UPDATE

Acting Vice President Bob Williamson mentioned that he neglected to introduce the College's new Director of Facilities & Capital Projects Kimberlee Clark at the Board's January meeting. Director Clark “started on January 3 and is the person who will be leading and managing many of the major capital projects.”

SHORELINE COMMUNITY COLLEGE

(VIRTUAL) SPECIAL MEETING 2 OF FEBRUARY 17, 2022

Acting Vice President Williamson went over a 2021-2022 Revised Operating Budget, Revenues and Expenses – January 2022 report (attached). He shared that he and Budget Director Cliff Frederickson have been meeting with Trustee Chan prior to Board meetings and credited Trustee Chan for her suggestions (inclusion of (as of date) to the Variance Favorable column; Notes on Variances), which have been incorporated into the report.

“Overall, seven months into the fiscal year, I think the College is in a pretty good position. Still, reason to be cautious, particularly as we go live with ctcLink—we don’t know what the impact that’s going to have on spring enrollment. A dip could impact our operating tuition revenue.”

Director Kimberlee Clark shared that she is very happy to be at Shoreline and enjoys working with the “great facilities team, tackling the projects that are here on campus, as well as assisting with any preventative maintenance that needs to take place on the campus.”

ACTION:

Acting Vice President Bob Williamson went over a Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Math (STEAM) building document (attached). In response to a question from Trustee Lux about previous capital projects and the impact on the College’s budget due to cost escalations, Acting Vice President Williamson confirmed that escalation costs are included in the STEAM building project cost.

Acting Vice President Williamson read tab 2 [Action: Board Resolution No. 163 (STEAM Building Local Cash Reserve Commitment)].

Motion 22:14: Motion made by Trustee Lux to adopt Resolution No. 163.

Motion seconded by Trustee Wells.

Chair Post D’Ambrosio inquired if the Board Reserves would not have to be used “if we’re able to procure donations.” Interim President Hanson responded in the affirmative and stated that “we will work with our Foundation Board to look for additional opportunities to cover that cost. This is simply to demonstrate that the College is committed to this portion of the budget.”

All five Trustees present (Rebecca Chan, Catherine Post D’Ambrosio, Tom Lux, Eben Pabee, Kim Wells) for this action item, voted aye to approve the motion.

- He had the honor to give congratulatory comments at the Trajal Hospitality Program's 2021-2022 virtual graduation ceremony. "This is bittersweet. The students in the program have spent the last ten months here. This is the 29th year of the College's partnership with the Program and over 1,700 students have taken part in it and it's the longest running educational contract program at the College. The bittersweet part is that the program will be on hiatus due to the impact of COVID on international travel."
- He met recently with Vince Madden, the President of the Foundation Board, as well as joined Diana Dotter and Bob Williamson for the Foundation Board's meeting on February 16. "Bob provided an overview of a proposed agreement between the College and the Foundation that will allow the Foundation to act as a limited fiscal agent for the College when necessary for the emergency payment of outstanding liabilities and student support during the College's transition to the ctcLink administrative software platform."
- The Shoreline International Film Festival (SIFF) will return to Shoreline and there will be an opening event on April 15.
- He, along with Acting Vice President Bob Williamson, Budget Director Cliff Frederickson, and Trustee Chan, participated in an entrance conference with representatives from the Office of the Washington State Auditor. "This is a formality for the annual financial audit for July 1, 2020 through June 30, 2021 and basically provides an overview of the process. The exit conference is expected to happen at the end of March."
- The state revenue projection increased by more than $2.7 billion over what was originally expected through mid-2025.

REPORT: CLOSING REMARKS – BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Trustee Lux spoke about the variety of events at ACCT's recent National Legislative Summit in Washington, DC and noted that the primary purpose of the Summit "is to talk to our legislators about the needs of community colleges and our students." The group from Washington state had meetings with Senator Murray and Senator Cantwell and Trustee Lux met with Representative Pramila Jayapal's staff. "It was a very successful conference."

State operating revenue is tied to wage and benefit expenses, which remain underspent pending faculty balloon payments in the spring.

Full-time faculty wages are awaiting balloon payments in the spring.

Hourly employee expenses are higher than expected due to increase need for part-time workers while full-time vacancies are being filled.

Personal Services Contracts includes costs for 25th Hour.
Costs are offset by corresponding savings in personnel budget.

YTD underspending in Goods and Services is due largely to processing time in accounts payable.

Travel remains underspent due to continued impact of COVID-19

SCCFT President Eric Hamako
Statement to the SCC Board of Trustees
2022.02.17
Permalink: <https://bit.ly/SCCFTtoBOT2022-02>

I ask that my comments be read into the record.

Trustees of the Board:

My name is Eric Hamako. I am the President of the faculty's union, the Shoreline Community College Federation of Teachers (SCCFT), Local 1950 of the American Federation of Teachers (AFT).

In his Seven Habits of Highly Effective People franchise, professor and management entrepreneur Stephen R. Covey, told a story known as "Rocks in a Jar." In that story, a professor presents a large glass jar to her students and places in it enough large rocks to reach the brim. She asks her students whether the jar is full and, in a series of exchanges, proceeds to further fill the jar with gravel, then sand, then water, each time asking whether the jar is full. Finally, the professor asks her students the meaning of the lesson. One student suggests, "You can probably put in more than you think you can?" In response, the professor suggests an alternate meaning, "Put the big things in first or you won't have room for them." Covey suggests that this "Rocks in a Jar" story is instructive for both our personal lives and also for organizational management.

Today, I would like to speak to you about a foundational concern for faculty: our workload. More specifically, today I'll address one aspect of faculty workload: the College's management of our "service work" or "other academic responsibilities." I'll apply the "Rocks in a Jar" story to examine the College's management of the service work faculty do as part of our responsibilities, outside our core instructional or student services functions. As an allegory, we can read the jar as the labor capacity that the College pays faculty to provide and the rocks, gravel, sand, and water as the various types of service work the College must accomplish by distributing into faculty's jars. But, Covey's allegory may assume two things, which appear to be problems at the College: first, that management knows the capacity of the jars for which it's paying and, second, that management can differentiate the "big things" from the "little things," the high priority service work from the lower priority service work.

First, we should consider the size of the jars – that is, the labor capacity that the College pays for, for faculty's "service work." Via collective bargaining in 2018-2019, the College and the faculty agreed that Full-Time Faculty members' workload consists of two primary components: our core instructional or student services duties and our "other academic responsibilities," which we might also call "service work." Such Full-Time Faculty service work includes responsibilities such as advising students, attending department and division meetings, completing mandatory trainings, serving on committees, and participating in College governance. Meanwhile, Associate Faculty (who are often imprecisely called "part-time" or "adjunct" faculty") are neither required nor paid for that "service work" as part of their regular contracts – although the College sometimes pays them at an hourly rate, via supplemental contracts. The College employs approximately 120 Full-Time Faculty. The College also employs another 250 Associate Faculty, with the number fluctuating from quarter to quarter. And, the College and the faculty union agreed that Full-Time Faculty's workload should consist of 80% core instructional or student services work – such as teaching courses or providing Library, Advising, or Counseling services – and 20% service work. So, based on our contractually agreed upon workload, the College and faculty agreed that the amount of core instructional or student services work should be 301 hours per quarter and the service work should be 75 hours per quarter. That is the College's quarterly labor capacity – or size of its jar – per Full-Time Faculty member per quarter: 75 hours. Into that 75 hours, the College should be fitting all the service work that one Full-Time Faculty member should be working in a quarter.

Of course, based on our actual workloads, many faculty are surprised to learn that there is an agreed upon "jar size" for which we're paid – and to which the College has agreed. The organizational culture at Shoreline, as with the broader teaching profession, tends toward self-sacrifice – that is, sacrificing our own personal capacity at no additional cost to the employer. As an organization, Shoreline Community College's operation relies on Full-Time Faculty – and Associate Faculty and other workers – supplying additional "jars" of our own labor capacity into which the College puts its rocks of work. That additional, personal labor capacity goes unpaid and often unrecognized, other than through workers' normalized commiserations about being overworked, behind, tired, or burnt out.

Often, neither the College nor individual faculty members are conscious of where the College's paid-for jar ends and our personal, uncompensated jars begin. That has consequences for both workers and the College. When an employer believes it has more capacity than it is actually paying for, it's easier to make imprudent decisions about how much to put into its jars, because more jars seem to magically appear. But it's not magic; it's labor that's paid for by workers ourselves, rather than by the College. When individual faculty members pay those unacknowledged costs, it takes a toll on those individual faculty members, on the faculty as a collective, on the College, and on our students.

For individual faculty, we pay in stress, burnout, and harm to our health, as well as tolls taken on our time with family, loved ones, and community – and sometimes paid in years off a faculty member's life. Some faculty members are taking medical leave, to seek treatment and to recuperate from carrying too much for too long. One faculty member recently sought a medical accommodation, not seeking a reduction in her full-time workload – but in an attempt to push back against creeping pressures to work beyond her contracted workload. Some faculty members are opting to retire sooner than they had planned or wanted. And some faculty, not yet of retirement age, are leaving the College or even the profession.

This overloading of our capacity also affects the faculty as a collective. Over time, the College has increased its reliance on temp-ified Associate Faculty jobs – jobs for which the College does not pay for service work. By not “seeing” faculty service work in its totality, the College may give the mistaken impression that it's still accomplishing the necessary service work with a decreasing proportion of Full-Time Faculty jobs – “doing more with less” – Full-Time Faculty jobs that many Associate Faculty have been desperately seeking for years, even as such Full-Time Faculty jobs become more and more rare. To be clear: Associate Faculty need more Full-Time Faculty job opportunities and Colleges need the service labor provided by increasing the proportion of stable, Full-Time Faculty jobs.

Eventually, the overloading and burning-out of faculty has financial costs to the College, with each turnover requiring additional resources for recruiting, hiring, onboarding, and acclimating of new faculty. And, the burnout and turnover caused by overloading workers has unquantified impacts on College morale and on students' learning experiences.

So, the College has had and continues to have problems recognizing the capacity of the workload for which it's actually paying – the size of the jars it's paying for. It has also demonstrated problems with distinguishing the “big stuff” from the “little stuff” as it decides what to load onto workers. With regard to faculty's service work, the College leadership has demonstrably failed to direct faculty's service work toward numerous high-priority, must-have service work.

As an analogous failure to differentiate the big stuff from the little stuff at the Board level, in 2017, the College's upper administration began directing the Board of Trustees to review College policies that were actually the purview of the College President, something the Board had previously said it would no longer do. The College administration's misdirection of Board members' labor, along with the Board's complicity, meant that the Board's attention was directed away from more crucial Board-level work, such as paying closer attention to the College's budgetary and financial practices, with, for example, the College going years without annual financial statements or external financial audits. Or attending to the College's performance for regional accreditors, with, for example, the College having received two "recommendations" from the accreditors in 2012 that, nine years later, were found to still be "out of compliance."

In recent years, the College leadership has similarly had difficulties differentiating and prioritizing "the big stuff" from "the little stuff." For example, former College President Roberts created a host of new, discretionary "steering committees" with minimal authority, while at the same time eroding the power and purview of core governance structures, such as the Strategic Plan & Budget Council.

Or, for example, returning to the subject of our College's regional accreditation – which is what allows our College to exist – the College administration has not been adequately directing faculty service labor toward the regular review & revision of student outcomes, at the College-level, the program-level, or the course-level. This was one of the areas in which the NWCCU regional accreditors found our College to be "out of compliance" with its standards.

Or, for example, directing sufficient faculty service work to produce necessary professional-technical programs' accreditation reports – such as the report required for our Dental Hygiene Program, whose reporting workload ballooned because of the College's handling of the Dental Hygiene Program's eventual move to the University of Washington.

Or, for example, the College's management of faculty's collective service labor for the impending transition to the ctcLink system. While the College has provided additional compensation to some faculty for their ctcLink-related work, it has also sent out messages to workers, pleading for "volunteer" labor that it says will be crucial to a successful ctcLink transition – such is the pervasive expectation that additional jars of labor might magically appear without additional cost to the College.

Or, for example, the College's prioritizing of Full-Time Faculty's service work, such that Appointment Review Committees – that is, tenure committees – are having increasing difficulty recruiting and retaining tenured faculty members to serve on those tenure committees. And, unless the College can better differentiate the "big stuff" from the "little stuff" – that is, the must-do faculty service work from the nice-to-have faculty service work – this particular problem will catastrophically worsen next year, as the College will struggle, under current conditions, to find full-time faculty who can serve on the approximately eighteen new tenure committees that will be forming for new Full-Time Faculty hires.

To be clear, as with Covey's "Rocks in a Jar" allegory, we are not saying that the College should stop supporting the varied breadth of faculty service work that makes our College distinctive and excellent. Instead, we are saying that the College must better recognize that the faculty's labor is not a jar of infinitely-expandable size – whether it's the College or individual faculty paying the price – and that the College must better differentiate and prioritize, so that we're sure that "the big stuff" – such as the things that ensure faculty participation in shared governance and the things that allow our College to continue to be accredited – is going in first.

I ask that my comments be read into the record. Good evening everyone. My name is Ric Doike-Foreman. I am presently serving as the Washington Federation of State Employees (WFSE) Chief Shop Steward.

I sat and thought about what I wanted to say tonight and opted to try for a different tact. I am presently trying to manage some familial issues that are creating some very interesting challenges in my life right now. Probably the most complicated challenges revolves around communication, empathy, and understanding from an alternative point of view. Already the odds are stacked against me as I fall short on all these counts.

My father is now in his 80s with questionable health and dressed in prejudice, bigotry, racism, arrogance, egotism, pride, and several other accessories that are no longer in fashion. There has always existed an interesting and very strained relationship between us. In a conversation with my father last night, I was struck by an uncanny resemblance to another part of my life after I made a fatal mistake and chose to engage with logic and process to better understand his situation. I listened to him as he expressed his outrage and discontent regarding the different aspects of his life. In each situation he placed himself at the center of persecution as he shrugged off responsibility for his roles in the circumstances. After each pause, I would attempt to iterate my understanding of the situation from his perspective and attempt to discuss and have him attain an understanding of the situation from an alternative perspective. Needless to say, bringing logic and process where empathy was the more appropriate choice resulted in me receiving a very intentional disconnect.

I made mention of an uncanny resemblance to another part of my life earlier. At previous Board of Trustees meetings, I have spoken to improving communication, working together, constituency class equality, being able to move forward, etc. These issues were presented in a context where again empathy would be the more appropriate choice, yet these were addressed by logic and process. At the very least this maintains the distance between the classified staff and leadership. Maybe I have failed to clearly state that communicating from a place of privilege with an imbalance between intent and impact is not conducive to maintaining a healthy productive environment. Maybe I have failed to clearly state that the most damaging of these conversations exists not on the campus-wide level but rather exists within the departmental level. There is a perceived arrogance and egotism barbing the communication. There seems to be a belief that because they are in a leadership role, they are superior to all others; that their viewpoint and opinions are the only ones that matters.

I am never the smartest person in a room. Nor am I the most articulate. I am not loudest nor the quietest. As with all members of my constituency, I am a person with thoughts, feelings, perspective, and experience. All I am asking tonight is you make the choice to actively and intentionally listen. Sometimes all that is needed is to be truly heard.

Thank you.

To the board of trustees, good evening. My name is Sunshine Cheng, I am the student body president.

Midterms are upon us and we are equal parts determined and tired. For those who are transferring, I wish my peers the best of luck in their applications and thank our faculty and staff for the grace they have shown us during these busy times. I hope everyone is finding opportunity for rest and recovery. As usual, Student Life has continued to host a variety of workshops and events, and are looking ahead into the spring for some of our larger ambitions, such as our SCOF sustainability challenge and opportunities to engage with the legislature. We are pleased to have allocated funding for the reinstatement of the men's soccer team as well as approved allocations to partially fund the benefits hub coordinator salary and renovations around campus. We are also thankful to have been able to participate in open forums for our new presidential candidates and are excited to see who will be the next to guide Shoreline in the direction of our collective goals. On behalf of ASG, we look forward to taking on the things that are to come and bringing our ongoing initiatives through to fruition.

Thank you.

Motion 22:19: Motion made by Trustee Lux that the “Shoreline Community College Board of Trustees appoint Dr. Jack Kahn as the new President of Shoreline Community College with a start date of July 1st, 2022, at an annual salary of two-hundred seventy thousand dollars ($270,000), and that the Board Chair execute a three-year contract with Dr. Kahn.”

Motion seconded by Trustee Pobee.

Trustee Wells stated how excited she is about “this motion and decision. Dr. Kahn not only had the full campus’s highest level of support and enthusiasm; he was one of the top candidates from the recruiting committee and the Board of Trustees—really delighted that we have a well-rounded and seasoned person with a stellar academic background, as well as a proven track record of digging into challenges, listening to constituencies, and working very collaboratively with constituencies. I’m really looking forward to his presence on campus and want to thank both the recruiting committee and Veronica Zura.”

Chair Post D’Ambrosio added, “If he is voted by the Board of Trustees, then accepts the offer, it would be a really exciting prospect for the College because he is definitely the person that has the most support from the community.”

Trustee Lux expressed that “the process worked really well with all aspects of the College and community, involved.” While conveying that the process went faster than he expected, he felt “it was quite smooth, and everybody had a chance to weigh in. As Kim” (Trustee Wells) “said earlier, Dr. Kahn did get the highest marks from the campus as a whole.”

Subject: 2021-2022 Services & Activities (S&A) Budget & Spring 2022 Allocations

Background

To date, the Board of Trustees have approved an S&A budget allocation of $933,056 for fall through winter quarters. As of February 23, 2022, S&A fees have generated $744,965 in revenue and a total of $460,286 has been used by S&A programs, student clubs, and other discretionary budgets.

With Shoreline Community College's continued re-opening of campus and a return to in-person classes and activities in mind, the S&A Committee invited programs to submit their budget requests for spring quarter in February 2022. A total of $125,015 was requested and of that, S&A approved $119,015 in allocations. Programs whose funding was not approved or whose request was not received during this formal process may request funding through the Associated Student Government's (ASG's) mini-grant process, beginning in early April 2022.

Executive Summary

At the December 2021 Board of Trustees meeting, the Board approved the allocation of funding for S&A programs, student clubs, and discretionary funds for winter quarter 2022. The S&A committee advised the Board at that time that funding for the remainder of the 2021-2022 academic year would be allocated on a per-quarter basis to allow for continued flexibility as the college continued to navigate its post-pandemic re-opening. A revenue of $1 million was projected for the current academic year, and in June 2021 the Board approved accessing (if needed) an additional $200,000 from S&A reserves. A total of $933,056 was allocated to 23 budgets for summer through winter quarters; as of February 23, 2022, a total of $460,286 has been spent. To date, the S&A fee has brought in total revenue of $744,965.

Please Note: A detailed breakdown of budget expenses and requests begins on page 7.

In February 2022, all S&A programs were invited to submit their budget requests for spring quarter. Budget managers were asked to provide updates regarding their spending up to that point and to submit a projection as to their anticipated costs for the remainder of the academic year. 13 programs responded, 3 of them asking for no funding at this time. The S&A committee made decisions based on the information provided and available at the time; programs will have the ability to request mini-grant funding from ASG for any budget items not funded through this process. During the mini-grant process, programs and student clubs are required to provide an overview and budget breakdown for their event/project, which helps keep ASG apprised of events and initiatives taking place on campus and allows them to provide support and promotions to the greater student body.

Of the $125,015 requested for spring quarter, $119,015 was approved. A breakdown of funding for each program is provided in the following pages.

Allocation Rationale

In February 2022, programs were asked to provide updates regarding their spending up to that point and to submit a projection as to their anticipated costs for winter quarter. Based on the information provided, allocations were made totaling $119,015. Based on summer-winter expenses to date of $460,286 it is estimated that no more than $600,000 will be spent by the end of winter. This combined with the allocation for spring will result in an estimated $725,000 in annual expenditures of the $1.2 million annual budget.

Recommendation

S&A programs have continued to demonstrate flexibility and persistence as they creatively work to support students during this transition back to in-person classes and activities. Because of this, the S&A Committee recommends that the Board of Trustees approve the proposed $119,015 in allocations for spring quarter. As the S&A fee has already brought in a revenue for $744,965 for summer thru winter quarters and spending to date has been $460,286 the committee feels comfortable that the amounts allocated are still well within the existing and projected budget for the 2021-2022 academic year.

Thank you,

BOARD OF TRUSTEES
(VIRTUAL) SPECIAL MEETING OF MARCH 16, 2022

TAB 4

FIRST READING

Subject: College Calendars: 2021-2022; 2022-2023; 2023-2024; 2024-2025
Background

Four (4) academic calendars are being presented to the Board of Trustees for a first reading: 2021-2022; 2022-2023; 2023-2024; 2024-2025. To note:

- The 2021-2022 calendar was updated to include the new Juneteenth holiday.
- The 2022-2023 calendar was updated to include the Juneteenth holiday, the change of the Day of Learning to the first Friday in May, and two (2) changes to grades as a result of the ctcLink conversion (eliminate the V grade and change the P/NC option to P/NP).
- The 2023-2024 calendar, approved as tentative last year, was updated to include the Juneteenth holiday, the change of the Day of Learning to the first Friday in May, and two (2) changes to grades as a result of the ctcLink conversion (eliminate the V grade and change the P/NC option to P/NP).
- The 2024-2025 calendar is included and is considered as a “Draft Tentative Calendar.”

The following recommendations by the Joint Union Management Committee (JU/MC) were used to develop the tentative 2024-2025 academic calendar:

1. Ensure continued adherence to Policy 6000.
2. Each quarter of the academic year should contain 49 or 50 instructional days.
3. Have three (3) final exam days for each of the academic year quarters (excludes Summer).
4. Have a prep day (a day without classes immediately before final exams) for each of the academic quarters (excludes Summer).
5. Schedule 5 non-instructional contract days. Opening week shall consist of four (4) days with one (1) day, for the purpose of professional learning in spring quarter per Article 7.b.5. When scheduling the professional day of learning day, include the following considerations:
 - a. Avoid the last two (2) weeks before the quarter ends.
 - b. Consider positive and/or negative impact on students when determining the date.
6. Attempt to have the same number of instructional days for each day of the week.
7. Commencement should be held the day after finals and can be held in the evening.
8. Have a full week of instruction following Thanksgiving.
9. Allow several days after the week of campus closure that the College is open before starting Winter quarter for necessary student services to be offered.

10. Where possible, have summer quarters begin in June, to ensure that faculty get a paycheck on July 10 and to provide a minimum four (4) week break between Summer and Fall Quarters.
11. Consider expanding the break between Winter and Spring quarter to more than five (5) days.

The Calendar Committee attempted to comply with the above parameters.

To follow: 2021-2022; 2022-2023; 2023-2024; 2024-2025 academic calendars.
